MEETING DATE CHANGED TODAY

Owen A. Charles Will Lecture at Court House Assembly Room
Tuesday Night.

MUSIC WILL BE ON PROGRAM

Eleven Men Today Consent to be Captains of Teams Which Will Solicit Membership.

Arrangements were completed today for Owen A. Charles, the apostle of the country town, to lecture here
next Tuesday night at eight o'clock
in the court house assembly room,
instead of Wednesday as was previously stated.

It was found today that this date
conflicted with the second lecture under the auspices of the library commission, and there was a desire that there be no conflicting attractions so that every person in Rushville may have an opportunity to hear Mr.
Charles.

Mr. Charles was called by long distance telephone today and agreed to change the date. He will come here Tuesday afternoon from Greenfield where he will lecture Monday night and have a breakfast in his honor Tuesday morning, given by the Greenfield boosters.

Eleven men have consented to act
as team captains who will canvass
the city the next few days after the lecture for members to the commercial body which will be organized.
Each team will be composed of three or four men and the city will be divided into districts.

The men who have consented to act as team captains are: S. L.
Trabue, Frank Reynolds, Walter
Hubbard, R. L. Tompkins, Lincoln
Guffin, Anthony Schrichte, Floyd
Hogsett, Wilbur Stiers, W. P. Elder,
Earl H. Payne and Leonard Clark.

Many other men, not only those
in mercantile lines, but other men who have no business interests, have all evinced a great interest in the coming campaign and have expressed a great willingness to help. Several doctors and lawyers have agreed to act as members of the teams.

Just as soon as Mr. Charles comes the team captains will be called together and will learn how the campaign can be carried on.

Some members of the executive committee held a meeting this afternoon and completed arrangements for the meeting. It was found that the court house assembly room was the only auditorium which could be obtained. Chairs will be placed in there so as to accommodate as many people as possible. A special musical program will be arranged for the occasion. Women and children as well as men are urgently requested
to attend the meeting.

CARTHAGE HERE TONIGHT

Has Chance to Win From Rushville
Team.

The Carthage high school team play the Rushville team tonight at the Graham school gym. A fast game is expected. Rushville defeated Carthage once this season but the local team is weakened by the absence of Webb and Martin. Webb is ill and Martin is ineligible. With these two players out of the game Carthage has more than a chance to win and the Rushville team will have to go some to prevent a defeat. The girls will play a curtain raiser to the big game. The curtain raiser will start at 7:30 o'clock.

EDWARD KENELL EXPIRED

Pneumonia Proved Fatal to Five
Year Old Boy.

Edward Kenell, the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kenell, died yesterday afternoon at four o'clock at the home of his parents, in North Hannah street. The little boy had been ill about four weeks suffering from pneumonia. Double pneumonia developed, causing his death. He is survived by his parents and three sisters. The funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at two-thirty o'clock at the residence and burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

USES TELEPHONE SOON AS IT'S IDLE

Mrs. John T. Kirkpatrick Sells 19
Bushels of Apples in Few Hours Result of Want Ad.

THEY ARE GETTING RESULTS

Mrs. John T. Kirkpatrick, the instant the telephone was not in use
at her home last night, called the Republican and begged that her
want ad. be taken out of the paper.
The ad. appeared for the first time
Wednesday evening and by early next day all her apples, nineteen bushels, had been sold at a dollar a bushel. She is convinced that want ads. get results.

Many other people are under the same conviction. Another man advertised a hard coal burner. He has had nine telephone inquiries and one
by letter and the ad. has appeared only twice. Tomorrow will be the last day the free want ads. appear
so those who want to get advantage
of one day had better send in their
ads. tonight.

W. K. STEWART TO LECTURE HERE

Well Known Indianapolis Man Who Has Studied Municipal Government Comes Wednesday Night

ONE OF LIBRARY COURSES

The second number of the lecture
course which was arranged by the library commission will be given in the court house assembly room next Wednesday evening. The lecture will be given by W. K. Stewart of Indianapolis, who is at the head of a large Indiana publishing house and who is conversant with the subject which he will discuss, "City Government."

Mr. Stewart is known as a very brilliant man, but he is especially well equipped for the subject which he will discuss here. Mr. Stewart has traveled all over Europe and in other places with the sole idea in view of studying municipal government. There is nothing political about the meeting, it is announced,
and it is free to everyone.

K. OF P. WORK.

The Knights of Pythias will have work in the ranks of Knight on next Monday night on three Esquires.

The telephone number at the residence of Cicero Newhouse has been changed from 3335 to 1766.

THANKFUL FOR SAVING POWER

Rev. A. W. Jamieson Says it is Wonderful That God Can Save the Chief of Sinners.

IS A COMPLETE SALVATION

Six Prayer Meetings Are Held This Morning and Bible Study
draws Crowd.

The interest in the revival at the United Presbyterian church is being stimulated more each day with the daily program of prayer meetings in the morning, bible study in the afternoon and preaching at night. Six prayer meetings were held this morning.

The text last night was Heb. 7:25.
Wherefore he is able to save unto
the uttermost all those who come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them." The speaker declared the great theme of the bible is salvation.
The great mission of Jesus to this earth was to accomplish salvation.
The greatest concern of every man is his own salvation. He spoke of Evangelist Sunday's meetings in Pittsburg, where 20,000 people gathered night after night, week after week, to hear the gospel of salvation
preached. Already more than 8,000
have professed acceptance of Christ
as Saviour. Speaking from the text,
the pastor said God was able to save
the vilest sinner.

"Some Christians seem to think,"
he said, "that some unsaved people are without hope. They are so pronounced in their infidelity; they are so vile in their habits; they are so old in years and in sin; How little faith we have in God's power to change the human heart! Look at Saul of Tarsus; look at the Philippian jailer; look at men of our own
city, and of your own knowledge,
know what they were and know what they are and thank God for his power to save the chief of sinners. He is able to save with a complete salvation. Some men would be willing to start, but are afraid they could not hold out. Jesus says He can hold on. "No man can pluck them out of my hand."

"Attention was called to the saints in glory, and the question asked, "Whence came they?" Out of the ranks of the unsaved, through conversion, into the company of God's people; then through Christian experience to the end of life's journey, and then called home. It is the one road which they all traveled,
and no one started who was not able,
with God's help, to complete the
preached. Already more than 8000
obey."

"But God's power to save is immuted by one thing," the pastor said.
"He can only save those who come unto God by him. Some things God cannot do. God cannot lie; God cannot break his own covenant; God
cannot act contrary to his own word.
God cannot save the man who will not come to him through Jesus Christ. He invites, and in his name
the invitation is repeated. Come."

Prayer meetings were held this morning with Dr. H. H. Elliott, Charles Andrews, William Offutt,
Albert Horr, Mrs. Poe and Mr. Ely.
The meetings have been well attended and have accomplished much good.

The afternoon Bible study yesterday answered the question "What must man do to be saved?" With bible texts, the various steps were traced as follows: He must know of salvation; he must believe the record; he must yield himself to God;

DUTY DOESN'T FALL ON ONE MAN

O. A. Charles Shows, However, That it Develops on Each to Enlist
the Aid of All.

LOGIC OF HIS REASONING

At Same Time it is the Duty of all
to Promote the Interest of Each Individual.

(By O. A. Charles.)

WHOSE BUSINESS IS IT?
The development of this
town is no one man's duty.
Nor is it the duty of any one
group of its people.
The individual must not hesitate to start the work.
His neighbors must not hesitate to help it along.
No one element can accomplish desired results alone.
Neither will one element
alone be benefited thereby.
It is the interest of all, and the business of all.
One man may originate, but
all men must execute.
The first duty of each one is
to enlist the aid of all.
The duty of all is to promote the interest of each.
The development of this
town is no one man's duty.
This town's development is
the town's opportunity.
This town's welfare is the whole town's business.
LET US GET BUSY TODAY.

There is one thing of great importance in the development of cities and that is transportation. There was a time not more than fifteen or twenty years ago when the trade zone of each city was confined to the territory from which it could be easily reached in a day's drive. This distance averaged about five miles in all directions. Trade territory a greater distance from the town or city could be reached if it was close to the railroad. A careful study of the maps of any particular State covering a period of three or four decades will show how important is this matter of transportation and it is needless to say that any town or city that is going to keep up with other towns and cities in the matter of growth and importance must have good means of transportation.

Twenty or thirty years ago when
the farmer went to town in a wagon,
five miles was about the limit of his journey and every little country
town had its own circle or zone
from which it drew its trade but now the roads are being piked and the farmers and everybody else, for that matter, are buying automobiles
and can travel fifteen or twenty miles as easily as they formerly traveled five. This has broadened the circle or trade zone of every town and city in the country. It is bringing the big stores in the big cities into direct competition with
the little stores in the little cities.
The question naturally arises: What is to become of the little ones?
This is a matter of transportation.
If the country town is to grow and prosper the means of transportation must be of the best. In fact, they must be improved in practically every community in the country.

Better roads must be built; the roads must be kept in better repair;
railroad facilities must be secured;
the railroad management must be induced to so arrange his schedules so that it will be of advantage to the town. All of these methods of

INMATES ON THE INCREASE

State Charities Board Today Announces Comparison For Decade.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 23.—State and county institutions today hold seven and seven-tenths per cent. more
inmates than they did ten years ago,
announced the state board of charities today. In the same decade the population of Indiana increased only seven and three-tenths per cent.
Outdoor relief and aid to the poor increased four and five-tenths per cent. during the ten years.

BANDITS HOLD UP A TRAIN IN MICHIGAN

Escaped Today With $200 in Cash
and Several Thousand Dollars Worth of Jewelry.

NOT A SHOT FIRED BY QUARTET

(By United Press.)

Jackson, Mich., Jan. 23.—Four bandits at one-thirty o'clock this morning robbed the passengers of one pullman on a Michigan Central train of more than $200 in cash and several thousand dollars worth of jewelry. They forced the engineer to stop the train at Parma and escaped.

A farmers' posse and a special train load of Jackson police traced
the bandits through the snow to a point where they are supposed to have boarded a waiting automobile
and returned to Jackson.

When the pullman conductor asked them for tickets they compelled him to throw up his hands. He and the negro porter were taken to the back end of the car and one man guarded the pair. The others made the passengers deliver. Two women fainted at the sight of the guns. Not a shot was fired and the bandits
were not masked.

GOETHALS MAY TAKE PLACE

Builder of Canal Mentioned as Likely
New York Official.

(By United Press.)

New York, Jan. 23.—Mayor Mitchell indicated in a statement this afternoon that George W. Goethals, builder of the Panama canal, would accept the office of New York police commissioner. George W. Perkins, close personal friend of both men is returning from Panama, where he urged the canal builder to accept and it is said that the result is very satisfactory.

HE CAN'T BELIEVE IT

(By United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 23.—Secretary of War Garrison said he could scarcely credit the report that George W. Goethals had accepted the New York police commissionership.

BEN MCFARLAN ILL

Ben L. McFarlan, who has been on a hunting trip in Florida arrived home today being forced to give up his trip on account of illness. He is suffering from stomach trouble and while not thought to be in a serious condition, is quite ill, and was taken to his home in North Morgan street.

MAY DROP RURAL CREDITS PLANS

Congress Probably Will Not Carry Out Program Concerning This Legislation This Term.

TO MUCH OTHER BUSINESS

Committee Chairman Says Today
President Wilson's Wishes
Will be Consulted.

(By United Press.)

Washington, Jan. 23.—Rural credits may be scratched off the administration's legislative program at this session of Congress, Representative Buckley of Ohio, chairman of the House rural credits sub committee stated today.

He said the length of time required for the anti-trust and appropriation bills combined with the early adjournment plan would probably preclude the consideration of any such legislation. President Wilson will be asked if he wishes the passage of the rural credits bill before adjournment in May.

"Our sub committee seems to think it is necessary to secure information
from bankers not as to what the bankers, but as to what the farmer does want in the day of a rural credits bill," declared Representative Buckley today.

He hopes that the sub committee will be given the authority to make a flying trip through the country to secure first hand information from the farmers who are not able to come to Washington.

bedded in 20 feet of sand and mud.
It is expected that she will not be raised before Sunday.

Do You

PLAY FAIR Mr. Storekeeper?

Of course you would resent
any idea that you did not play fair with your customers.
But do you play fair with
the manufacturers who help
you? Do you play fair with yourself?

When a manufacturer
places his advertising in the newspapers of your town and makes a market for you do
you back him up?

Do you let the public know
you have the goods?
If not, why not?

This is a line of questions
you should ask yourself until
you find a satisfactory answer.

The right answer will go far towards building your business
and increasing your sales in 1914.

MRS. JAMES HIBBEN DEAD

Former Resident Passed Away in Indianapolis Today.

Word was received here today of the death of Mrs. James Hibben at her home in Indianapolis. For many years she resided in this city where her husband was in business. He was also connected with the firm of Hibben, Patterson and company in Indianapolis.

She was about eighty years old and will be remembered by many people here. The funeral will be held Monday afternoon at two o'clock at the late residence in Indianapolis. She is survived by two sons, Charles and Thomas Hibben and one daughter, Mrs. Wiles. When they resided here Mr. Hibben was a partner of the late A. G. Mauzy.

No Evidence Against Him. Noblesville, Ind., Jan. 23.—Clarence Ogle, prosecuted on the charge of arson by deputies from the state fire marshal's office, was acquitted by a jury. There was evidence to indicate that the fire was of incendiary origin, but no direct proof against the defendant was shown.

PRESIDENT APPROVES "ANTI-TRUST" BILLS

Administration Program Formally Outlined.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Four measures that embody supplemental anti-trust legislation recommended for enactment in the address delivered to congress by President Wilson on Tuesday were agreed to at a conference held by Democratic leaders of the senate and the house and have been approved by the president. The bills may be briefly summarized as follows:

First, a bill creating an interstate trade commission.

Second, a bill to regulate directorates of corporations and to prohibit interlocking directorates.

Third, a bill defining unlawful monopoly or restraints of trade.

Fourth, the trade relations bill, which among other things forbids unfair trade practices, such as underselling in one locality to stifle competition and recouping the losses thus sustained by raising prices in localities where there is no competition.

There are rumors in circulation of an increase in taxes all kinds. These have caused a most pessimistic feeling, while the government's lack of funds to pay the army or postal money orders and other obligations makes things look desperate.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Fire at Fort Worth, Tex., caused a loss of $600,000, destroying nearly 6,000 bales of cotton and twenty-five houses.

Fire destroyed the social settlement church founded by the Methodist Episcopal church in Copenhagen, causing a loss of $100,000.

One woman was killed when spreading rails wrecked a Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie train near Pembroke, Ont.

Four thousand bales of cotton were destroyed or damaged by fire which swept the warehouse of Trout & Co., at Memphis. The loss is estimated at $300,000.

The South Carolina assembly has gone on record as favoring the repeal of the fifteenth amendment to the constitution, which gives negroes the right to vote.

Amusements

The Gem will show a two reel 101 Bison feature tonight. It is entitled "The Madonna of the Slums" and is said to be a great picture. Grace Cunard and Francis Ford are featured. The chief interest centers about the celebration of New Year's eve in an artist's headquarters where thieves come to recover the girl model. The other is a Joker comedy "Mike and Jake Among the Canibals." Max Asher and Harry McCoy are featured in this one.

"Phantoms," the two reel picture that will be shown at the Princess tonight is a gripping and surprising play, changing from the very acme of excitement and joy to fiery hate and then to sullen gray hostility on the part of a temperamental actress who loses her fiancé through her own foolishness and spends an unhappy life, only cheered by the phantoms of the past. It is an unusually strong play and is interesting in a series of dissolves, making the psychological values very telling. An Edison comedy finishes the program.

The Portola will again show Helen Gardner in "The Wife of Cain" and "A Sister to Carmen" for tonight. Both are four reel features and attracted much attention and received much comment. Both pictures are taken amid beautiful scenery. Tomorrow matinee and night a two reel Edison feature "Phantom Signals" will be shown. It is a thrilling railway story shown two railroad wrecks.

APPENDICITIS IS FATAL

Carthage Boy Dies Here Following an Operation.

DIES AT GREENFIELD HOME

Word is Received of Death of Mrs. Walter Sparks.

Word was received here last night of the death of Mrs. Myrtle Sparks, wife of Dr. Walter Sparks, of Greenfield. Dr. Sparks is a brother of Will M. Sparks and Dr. Frank Sparks of this city and a son of Mrs. Harriet Sparks. The death of Mrs. Sparks comes as a shock to her many friends and relatives here. Mrs. Sparks had visited here on numerous occasions and was well known. Death was due to a disease of the throat. Besides her husband she is survived by four children, one son and three daughters. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

CHURCH CANVASS BRINGS RESULTS

Members of St. Paul M. E. Congregation Hear of Fruits of Day's Labor at Night Meeting.

ADDRESSES ARE INTERESTING

An interesting and enthusiastic meeting was held last night at the Methodist church, which was the close of the "every member canvass" day. It was reported that every member of the church who could be found was visited yesterday. The country members were visited as well as the town members. The general good feeling which was engendered by the campaign was manifested in the addresses which were made and in the social intercourse at the close of the meeting. It was the general opinion of all that the day was a great success and that the results were above their most sanguine expectations.

Addresses were made by the pastor, Dr. Virgil Tevis, Mrs. Minnie Abercrombie (who made the "hit" of the evening), E. B. Thomas, James Lock, F. G. Hackleman, Lon Havens, and A. T. Mahin. Short talks were also made by a number of others. Interesting experiences of the day were related which brought much valuable information concerning the general membership before the church.

Joint Senate and House Sessions on Anti-Trust Bills Are Being Advocated.

QUESTION IS NON-PARTISAN

(By United Press.) Washington, Jan. 23.—Preparations for the public hearing on anti-trust bills was made by the House judiciary and inter-state commerce committee in Congress. Joint Senate and House hearings were advocated and it was agreed by the Democrats that no caucus would be needed, the question was so non-partisan.

Samuel Utermeyer was here today trying vainly to bring back to life the bills to regulate the New York stock exchange, which the President disapproves.

SAY SOLDIERS STRUCK WOMEN

Affidavits Charge That State Militiamen Knocked Down Paraders at Trinidad, Colo.

CHILDREN ARE ALSO HURT

Declare That Infantrymen Used Their Rifles as Clubs and Cavalrymen Their Swords.

(By United Press.)

Trinidad, Colo., Jan. 23.—That rifles as clubs were used by state militiamen on women and children who paraded the streets yesterday, was the statement made in affidavits returned by paraders of the United Mine Workers union this afternoon.

The affidavits will be used in the proposed congressional investigation of the southern Colorado coal strike.

Mrs. Mary Herna, carrying an American flag, marched in the van of several hundred women and children whom cavalrymen, with swords, rode down by order of General John Chase, commanding the militia.

She says she was knocked down by a horse and the flesh torn from her body. Infantry soldiers used their guns as clubs and struck women and children.

A spectator made affidavit that General Chase, after ordering a charge, struck right, and left at women with his revolver. Every affidavit agrees that the marching women had not the San Rasha hospital as the ultimate end of the march, but that they were merely following a pre-arranged line of march and that the attack was unwarranted.

Trinidad is an armed camp this afternoon. Infantrymen and cavalrymen, heavily armed, patrol the city to prevent the recurrence of yesterday's rioting.

TAKE ACTION AGAINST SYMPATHETIC STRIKE

United Mine Workers in Convention Are Opposed to Plan.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 23.—There will be no sympathetic walkout of United Mine Workers on account of the Colorado strike. The miners' convention here today adopted a resolution not to abrogate contracts in unionized districts when a strike is on in any other district.

They also passed a resolution taking away from the president the right to appoint the members of the committee on wage scale and providing a caucus of delegates from each district shall select a member of the committee.

SUFFS DO NOT APPROVE OF PLAY

"The Blindness of Virtue" Fails to Get Stamp of Approval at Columbus Before Presentation.

IS ENDORSED OTHER PLACES

Mrs. Kate Ray of Gary Stands
Sponsor For Play But Others
Do Not Agree With Her.

(By United Press.)

Columbus, Ind., Jan. 23-- Suffragists of this city led by Miss Vida Newsom, president of the Indiana Federated (Women's) Clubs, did not place their official stamp of approval on the drama "The Blindness of Virtue," before its presentation here tonight.

Whatever their individual attitude towards this frank sex drama might be the clubwomen did not respond to the efforts Mrs. Kate Wood Ray of Gary made in advance of the first performance to stand sponsor for the play.

Mrs. Ray's interest in the play is entirely unselfish, she declared. She merely believed the play presented the social problem in a light that parents ought to see. She has gone around the state in advance of the play stirring up the clubwomen. In Indianapolis Mrs. Ray had marked success in obtaining the advance endorsement of many of the capitol city's leading suffragists. Mrs. Ray came prominently into public notice recently when she refused to accept the office of chairman of the Gary board of Public Safety.

The story of "The Blindness of Virtue," which has been the subject of both strong praise and criticism, follows briefly:

An English vicar and his wife have raised their 17 year old daughter Effie ignorant of the relation of the sexes. A young rake is shipped down to the parish by his father and becomes infatuated with Effie but does not take advantage of the girl's innocence.

Inspired by the example of a local girl who has been betrayed in London and returns to the parish the vicar asks his wife to tell Effie the story of life and its pitfalls. The wife promises to tell but does not keep the promise.

One night Effie in her innocence and deeply in love with the young Englishman goes to his room in night-clothes and finding him absent lies down on his bed and falls asleep. He finds her there on his return next morning and tried to hide her from the consequences of the compromising position. She throws her arms around him and declares her love and in this position the vicar finds them.

Before a tragedy can be enacted the wife of the angry vicar, confesses that she has not told Effie about life and that Effie in the blindness of her virtue had gone into her lovers' room. The young man is forgiven and the girl is told what Mrs. Ray and other suffragists believe every girl ought to know. The curtain drops on a happy family.

RUN DOWN PEOPLE

Let Vinol Make You Strong.

Run-down conditions are caused by overwork, worry, too close confinement, a chronic cough or cold which it is difficult to cure.

We want to say to every person in this condition—you need Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil, the great strength creator. It will supply iron to the blood in the most easily assimilated form, create healthy appetite, strengthen your digestive organs and make you eat better, sleep better and feel better.

A case has just come to our attention from Racine, Wis. Mrs. W. H. Brill says: "I was in a very bad rundown condition. Life was not worth living. I could not sleep—was nervous and not able to work—and doctors failed to help me, but Vinol did wonders for me. In a short time I was stronger than ever and had gained 22 pounds."

We are confident that Vinol is the best body builder and strength creator we have ever sold. Try a bottle on our guarantee to refund your money if it fails to benefit you. F. B. Johnson & Co., Druggists, Rushville, Ind.

Indianapolis Man Writes Relatives
Describing Executions Following
Rebel Victory or Juarez

SOFT NOSED BULLETS USED.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 23.—Horror of the civil war in Mexico are related by Henry Kattman, a local man who wrote to local relatives from El Paso about the capture of Juarez.

"I saw the rebels stand three men against a wall and shoot them", says Kattman who declared the executions following the rebel victory numbered several hundred. "Sixteen bodies were lying near the wall. The three I saw shot died like men. None was blindfolded and they stood facing the firing squad, waving their hats as the men took aim.

"When I got back to American soil I appreciated a stiff glass of rye, as the bodies smelled awfully strong.

"There is no doubt that the rebels have been using a few soft nosed bullets, the kind not permitted in warfare among civilized countries. Some of the dead had their heads shot off."

Muncie Officials Cause Arrest of Two Physicians Who Have Violated State Law.

ON TESTIMONY OF BOYS

Investigation of Story Told by Alexandria Youth Revealed Trial to Muncie Offices.

Muncie, Ind., Jan. 23.—As the result of investigations conducted by the grand jury, Dr. Casper L. Bacon and Dr. O. I. Reasoner, two of Muncie's well-known physicians, were arrested on indictments charging them with unlawfully writing prescriptions and selling a drug.

The probe here was started following the arrest in Alexandria of several youths who said they had purchased the "dope" tablets in Muncie and Marion. The boys were brought here to testify before the grand jury, and it was on their evidence that the indictments were drawn. It is said another indictment, charging the illegal sale of drugs will be returned against a prominent local druggist.

According to the story of the young men, they came to Muncie two and three times each week to buy "dope," sometimes getting as many as 200 tablets at a time. The city and county officials are aroused about the conditions revealed by the boys, and they are determined to stamp out the practice.

A PLEA FOR BETTER ROADS

Present Method of Building Highways
a Disgrace to the State.

Indianapolis, Jan. 23.—That only skilled engineers should be allowed to have charge of roadbuilding and repair work on the highways of the state was the assertion of Clarence A. Kenyon of Indianapolis, president of the Indiana Good Roads association, in an address on "Good Roads" at the opening session of the Indiana Engineering society.

Mr. Kenyon declared that the present methods of building highways are a disgrace to the state and that millions of dollars have been wasted in vain attempts to have good roads.

"Roads are worn out in Indiana even before the bonds which were issued for their construction have been paid for," said the speaker. "The trouble is that millions are spent by those who do not understand the work which a political and unbusinesslike system of government allows them to perform."

County surveyors from all parts of the state met and appointed a committee to draft a bill to be presented to the next legislature, providing for a uniform compensation of county surveyors.

DOESN'T NEED ANY ADVICE

The President Warns Against Solicitation For These Jobs.

Washington, Jan. 23.—President Wilson declares that no man who seeks a place on the federal reserve board will be appointed. He says his selections will be limited to men who do not personally or through their friends urge their own appointment. The president said it was easy for him to determine whether communications urging appointments were spontaneous or part of an organized letter writing campaign.

The president directed that the widest publicity be given to his announced determination to eliminate all who put themselves forward as candidates for the board so as to save him the trouble of considering unsolicited advice of this character. The president expects that he will be ready to announce the appointees for the board by the latter part of February.

A Boy and a Gun.

Anderson, Ind., Jan. 23.—Miss Mazie Dobson, aged fourteen, is in a serious condition with a bullet lodged in the upper part of the liver. The girl was accidentally shot by her brother Gerald, aged eighteen. The girl was reading while her brother sat opposite to her toying with a revolver when it was accidentally discharged. The girl's recovery is doubtful.

DRUGGISTS HERE
HAVE SOMETHING
NEW FOR COLDS

An External Treatment That Vaporizes When Applied Over the Throat and Chest.

COLDS GO OVERNIGHT,
CROUP IN 15 MINUTES

Rushville Druggists Are Giving with Each Sale a Refund Blank, Good for Money Back if Not Delighted.

Since the introduction here a short time ago, the new treatment for cold troubles, known as Vicks Croup and Pneumonia Salve, has aroused a great deal of interest among Rushville people, especially among mothers who have small children.

The local druggists report quite a number who have taken advantage of the 30-day trial offer to see if Vicks really will relieve croup and colds quicker than internal medicines. With each purchase there is given a refund blank, showing the date of sale. If you do not find this treatment perfectly satisfactory return this blank to your druggist any time within a month from the date of purchase and your money will be promptly refunded.

In place of being taken internally this new treatment is in the form of a salve and is applied over the throat and chest, in severe cases being covered with warm flannel cloths.

The heat of the body liberates soothing antiseptic vapors that are inhaled with each breath. At the same time the preparation is absorbed through the skin, relieving the soreness and tightness.

Croup is actually relieved in fifteen minutes while the worst colds go over night. For all bronchial and catarrhal troubles, sore throat, hoarseness and difficult breathing, this new treatment will be found unusually effective.

It is a positive protection against pneumonia in its early stages and in advanced cases the medicated vapors inhaled, loosen the phlegm and ease the difficult breathing. Its use does not interfere with other forms of treatment.

Nearly all the leading druggists now have Vicks in stock. It comes in three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00. The price is never cut.

Peculiar After Effects of Grip This Year

LEAVES KIDNEYS IN WEAKENED CONDITION

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are often very distressing and leave the system in a run down condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to dangerous kidney trouble. Druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root, on receipt of ten cents, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince any one who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles 50c. and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure to mention this paper.

PROLOGUE.

If a literary miner were to appraise this story he would say of it:

"It pans out a big percentage of thrills."

There's "pay dirt" in this mystery story for every lover of an exciting tale and an interesting plot. It is one of the masterpieces of its author, who is a recognized leader in the field of the detective story.

Round a beautifully inlaid cabinet dating from the days of Louis XIV. which stands in a Fifth avenue mansion weaves a story of plot and counterplot, mystery, suspense and surprise. Jim Godfrey, shrewdest of reporters, and the detective bureaus of New York and Paris are trying to unravel the intricately entangled clues. And the reader, too, will go along with them, breathless and absorbed, getting now a hint, again coming up against a blank wall, until, like them, he comes to the amazing explanation. And the one who baffles reporters, detectives and readers is Crochard, the invincible, a creation in detective fiction.

CHAPTER I.

The First Tragedy.

"HELLO!" I said as I took down the receiver of my desk 'phone in answer to the call. "Is that you, Lester?" asked Philip Vantine's voice.

"Yes. So you're back again!" "Got in yesterday. Can you come up to the house and lunch with me today?"

"I'll be glad to," I said and meant it, for I liked Philip Vantine.

"I'll look for you, then, about 1:30." And that is how it happened that an hour later I was walking over toward Washington square, just above which, on the avenue, the old Vantine mansion stood. It was almost the last survival of the old regime, for the tide of business had long since overflowed from the neighboring streets into the avenue.

Philip Vantine had been born in the house where he still lived and declared that he would die there. He had no one but himself to please in the matter, since he was unmarried and lived alone, and he mitigated the increasing roar and dust of the neighborhood by long absences abroad.

Vantine was about fifty years of age, the possessor of a comfortable fortune, something of a connoisseur in art matters, a collector of old furniture. His reasons for remaining single in no way concerned his lawyers, a position which our firm had held for many years, and the active work of which had come gradually into my hands.

He came forward to meet me, and we shook hands heartily.

"It's plain to see that the trip did you good," I said.

"Yes," he agreed; "I never felt more fit. But come along; we can talk at table. There's a little difficulty I want you to untangle for me."

I followed him upstairs to his study, where a table laid for two had been placed near a low window.

"I had lunch served up here," Vantine explained, as we sat down, "because this is the only really pleasant room left in the house."

He paused and glanced about the room. Every piece of furniture in it was the work of a master.

"I suppose you found some new things while you were away?" I said.

"Yes—and it's that I wanted to talk to you about. I brought back six or eight pieces. I'll show them to you presently. They are all pretty good, and one is a thing of beauty. It's more than that—it's an absolutely unique work of art. Only, unfortunately, it isn't mine."

"It isn't yours?"

"No, and I don't know whose it is."

It was, I thought, that's what I want you to do for me. It's a Boule cabinet—the most exquisite I ever saw. It came from Paris, and it was addressed to me. The only explanation I can think of is that my shippers at Paris made a mistake, sent me a cabinet belonging to some one else and sent mine to the other person."

"You had bought one, then?"

"Yes, and it hasn't turned up. But beside this one it's a mere daub. My man Parks got it through the customs yesterday. As there was a Boule cabinet on my manifest, the mistake wasn't discovered until the whole lot was brought up here and uncased this morning."

"Weren't they uncased in the customs?"

"No. I've been bringing things in for a good many years, and the customs people know I'm not a thief. Come in," he added, answering a tap at the door.

The door opened and Vantine's man came in.

"A gentleman to see you, sir," he said and handed Vantine a card.

Vantine looked at it a little blankly.

"I don't know him," he said. "What does he want?"

"He wants to see you, sir—very bad. I should say. I think he's a Frenchman, sir. Anyway, he don't know much English. Shall I show him out, sir?"

"No," said Vantine, after an instant's hesitation. "Tell him to wait."

"I tell you, Lester," he went on as Parks withdrew, "when I went downstairs this morning and saw that cabinet I could hardly believe my eyes. I thought I knew furniture, but I hadn't any idea such a cabinet existed. The most beautiful I had ever seen is at the Louvre. It stands in the Salle Louis XIV., to the left as you enter. It belonged to Louis himself. Of course I can't be certain without a careful examination, but I believe that cabinet, beautiful as it is, is merely the counterpart of this one."

He paused and looked at me, his eyes bright with the enthusiasm of the connoisseur. "Boule furniture," he continued, "is usually of ebony inlaid with tortoise shell and incrustured with arabesques in metals of various kinds. The incrustation had to be very exact, and to get it so the artist clamped together two plates of equal size and thickness, one of metal, the other of tortoise shell, traced his design on the top one and then cut them both out together. The result was two combinations, the original, with a tortoise shell ground and metal applications, and the counterpart, applique metal with tortoise shell arabesques. The original was really the one which the artist designed and whose effects he studied. The counterpart was merely a resultant accident, with which he was not especially concerned. Understand?"

"Yes, I think so," I said.

"Well, it's the original which has the real artistic value. Of course the counterpart is often beautiful, too, but in a much lower degree."

"I can understand that," I said.

"And now, Lester," Vantine went on, his eyes shining more and more, "if my supposition is correct, if the Grand Louis was content with the counterpart of this cabinet for the long gallery at Versailles who do you suppose owned the original?"

I saw what he was driving at.

"I believe it belonged to Mme. de Montespan," he said.

"Really, Vantine," I exclaimed, "I didn't know you were so romantic. You quite take my breath away!"

He flushed a little at the words, and I saw how deeply in earnest he was.

"The craze of the collector takes him a long way sometimes," he said.

"What I want you to do is to cable my shippers, Armand & Son, Rue du Temple, find out who owns this cabinet and buy it for me."

"Perhaps the owner won't sell."

"Oh, yes, he will! Anything can be bought for a price."

"You mean you're going to have this cabinet, whatever the cost?"

"I mean just that."

"At least you'll tell me where to begin," I said. "I don't know anything of the value of such things."

"Well," said Vantine, "suppose you begin at 10,000 francs. We mustn't seem too eager. It's because I'm so eager that I want you to carry it through for me. I can't trust myself."

"And the other end?"

"There isn't any other end. Of course, strictly speaking, there is, because my money isn't unlimited, but I don't believe you will have to go over 500,000 francs."

I gasped.

"You mean you're willing to give $100,000 for this cabinet?"

Vantine nodded.

"Maybe a little more. If the owner won't accept that you must let me know before you break off negotiations. But come and see it."

He led the way out of the room and down the stairs, but when we reached the lower hall he paused.

"Perhaps I'd better see my visitor first," he said. "You'll find a new picture or two over there in the music room. I'll be with you in a minute."

I started on, and he turned through a doorway at the left.

An instant later I heard a sharp exclamation; then his voice calling me.

"Lester, come here!" he cried.

I ran back along the hall, into the room which he had entered. He was standing just inside the door.

"Look here," he said, with a queer catch in his voice and pointed with a trembling hand to a dark object on the floor.

I moved aside to see it better. Then my heart gave a sickening throb, for the object on the floor was the body of a man.

It needed but a glance to tell me that the man was dead. There could be no life in that livid face, in those glassy eyes. We stood for a moment shaken as one always is by sudden and unexpected contact with death.

"Who is he?" I asked at last.

"I don't know," answered Vantine hoarsely. "I never saw him before."

Then he strode to the bell and rang it violently. "Parks," he went on sternly as that worthy appeared at the door, "what has been going on in here?"

"Going on, sir?" repeated Parks, with a look of amazement.

Then his glance fell upon the huddled body, and he stopped short, his eyes staring, his mouth open.

"Why—why," he stammered, "that's the man who was waiting to see you, sir."

"You mean he has been killed in this house?" demanded Vantine.

"He was certainly alive when he came in, sir," said Parks, recovering something of his self possession. "Maybe he was just looking for a quiet place where he could kill himself. He seemed kind of excited."

"Of course," agreed Vantine, with a sigh of relief, "that's the explanation. Only I wish he had chosen some place else. I suppose we shall have to call the police, Lester?"

"Yes," I said, "and the coroner. Suppose you leave it to me. We'll lock up this room, and nobody must leave the house until the police arrive."

"Very well," assented Vantine, visibly relieved. "I'll see to that," and he hastened away, while I went to the phone, called up police headquarters and told briefly what had happened.

Twenty minutes later there was a ring at the bell, and Parks opened the door and admitted four men.

"Why, hello, Simmonds!" I said, recognizing in the first one a detective sergeant. Back of him was Coroner Goldberger, whom I had met in two previous cases, while the third countenance, looking at me with a quizzical smile, was that of Jim Godfrey, the Record's star reporter. The fourth man was a policeman in uniform, who at a word from Simmonds took his station at the door.

"What is it?" asked Godfrey.

"Just a suicide, I think," and I unlocked the door into the room where the dead man lay.

Simmonds, Goldberger and Godfrey stepped inside. I followed and closed the door.

"Nothing has been disturbed," I said. "No one has touched the body."

Simmonds nodded and glanced inquiringly about the room, but Godfrey's eyes, I noticed, were on the face of the dead man. Goldberger dropped to his knees beside the body, looked into the eyes and touched his fingers to the left wrist. Then he stood erect again and looked down at the body, and as I followed his gaze I noted its attitude more accurately than I had done in the first shock of discovering it.

It was lying on its right side, half on its stomach, with its right arm doubled under it and its left hand clutching at the floor above its head. The knees were drawn up as though in a convulsion, and the face was horribly contorted, with a sort of purple tinge under the skin, as though the blood had been suddenly congealed. The eyes were wide open, and their glassy stare added not a little to the apparent terror and suffering of the face.

The coroner glanced at Simmonds.

"Not much question as to the cause," he said. "Poison, of course."

"Of course," nodded Simmonds.

"But what kind?" asked Godfrey.

"It will take a postmortem to tell that," and Goldberger bent for another close look at the distorted face. "I'm free to admit the symptoms aren't the usual ones."

I told all I knew—how Parks had announced a man's arrival, how Vantine and I had come downstairs together, how Vantine had called me and finally how Parks had identified the body as that of the strange caller.

"How long a time elapsed after Parks announced the man before you and Mr. Vantine came downstairs?" asked Goldberger.

"Half an hour perhaps."

Goldberger nodded.

"Let's have Parks in," he said.

I opened the door and called to Parks, who was sitting on the bottom step of the stair.

Goldberger looked him over carefully as he stepped into the room, but there could be no two opinions about Parks. He had been with Vantine for eight or ten years, and the earmarks of the competent and faithful servant were apparent all over him.

"Do you know this man?" Goldberger asked, with a gesture toward the body.

"No, sir," said Parks; "I never saw him till about an hour ago, when Rogers called me downstairs and said there was a man to see Mr. Vantine."

"Who is Rogers?"

"He's the footman, sir. He answered the door when the man rang."

"Well, and then what happened?"

"I took his card up to Mr. Vantine, sir."

"Did Mr. Vantine know him?"

"No, sir; he wanted to know what he wanted."

"What did he want?"

"I don't know, sir. He couldn't speak English hardly at all. He was French, I think. He was so excited that he couldn't remember what little English he did know."

"What made you think he was excited?"

"The way he stuttered and the way his eyes glistened. After Mr. Vantine said he would see him presently Rogers and me went back to our lunch."

"Do you mean to say that you and Rogers went away and left this stranger here by himself?"

"The servants' dining room is right at the end of the hall, sir. We left the door open. If he'd come out into the hall while you were there?"

"No, sir."

"Did anybody come in?"

"Oh, no, sir; the front door has a snap lock. It can't be opened from the outside without a key."

"So you are perfectly sure that no one either entered or left the house by the front door while you and Rogers were sitting there?"

"Nor by the back door either, sir; to get out the back way, you have to pass through the room where we were."

"Where were the other servants?"

"The cook was in the kitchen, sir. This is the housemaid's afternoon out."

The coroner paused. Godfrey and Simmonds had both listened to this interrogation.

"What is the room yonder used for?" asked Godfrey, pointing to the connecting door.

"It's a sort of storeroom just now, sir," said Parks. "Mr. Vantine is just back from Europe, and we've been unpacking in there some of the things he bought while abroad."

"Send in Mr. Vantine, please," said Goldberger.

Parks went out, and Vantine came in a moment later. He corroborated exactly the story told by Parks and myself, but he added one detail.

"Here is the man's card," he said, and held out a square of pasteboard. It contained a single engraved line: "M. Theophile D'Aurelle."

"He's French, as Parks suggested," said Godfrey. "That's evident, too, from the cut of his clothes."

"Yes, and from the cut of his hair," added Goldberger. "You say you didn't know him, Mr. Vantine?"

"I never before saw him, to my knowledge," answered Vantine. "The name is wholly unknown to me."

"Well," said Goldberger, taking possession of the card and slipping it into his pocket, "suppose we lift him on to that couch by the window and take a look through his clothes."

The man was slightly built, so that Simmonds and Goldberger raised the body between them without difficulty and placed it on the couch. I saw Godfrey's eyes searching the carpet.

"What I should like to know," he said after a moment, "is this: If this fellow took poison what did he take it out of? Where's the paper or bottle or whatever it was?"

"Maybe it's in his hand," suggested Simmonds, and lifted the right hand, which hung trailing over the side of the couch.

Then as he raised it into the light a sharp cry burst from him.

"Look here!" he said, and held the hand so that we all could see.

Political Announcements

Republican Meeting.

The Republicans of Rush county will meet in mass convention in the various townships on Friday or Saturday, Feb. 6th or 7th, for the purpose of electing one precinct committee-man for each precinct, and delegates and alternate delegates to the Sixth district meeting, to be held at Cambridge City, Indiana, on Tuesday, the 10th day of February, 1914.

Rushville township will be entitled to three delegates and three alternate delegates, and each of the other townships will be entitled to one delegate and one alternate delegate.

The newly appointed committee-men will meet at the court house in Rushville, Indiana, on Monday, February 19th, 1914, for the purpose of organizing the county central committee by selecting a chairman, secretary and other officers, as may be pertinent to such organization.

CLATA L. BEBOUT,
Chairman.

CHARLES J. BROOKS,
Secretary.

City and County Opportunity.

It appears that Rushville is beginning to realize its opportunities. The movement to organize a Chamber of Commerce here has stimulated and aroused untold enthusiasm, the kind which will get results. Men who have never before displayed any interest in their home have shown symptoms of being the most active workers in the present campaign.

The proposed Chamber of Commerce, as outlined by O. A. Charles, offers the opportunity for Rushville to assume the position it should hold, by reason of its natural resources. Here we have a city and county unexcelled, for its size, for rail facilities, fertile soil and mercantile enterprise.

The value of organization has already been shown to the people of Rushville and Rush county. They need no visual proofs of the value of unified action. This has been shown to be the only possible means of obtaining results so often that it is not open to argument even.

People with property in Rushville are opening their eyes to the fact that the betterment of the city and county means the betterment of their condition. Men who work by the week—and we are greatly in the majority—realize that if, by co-operation, we can better the city and county, we are making our home a better place to live in.

Farmers, too, many of them, are awakening to the fact that betterment of their county seat also works good for them. Closer and more harmonious work to build up the community redounds not only to the man in town, but to the farmer who makes this his trading point. If he will become interested in this county seat and the county seat people will take a renewed interest in their neighbors who touch arms with them in the county, wonders will be worked.

GAME BIRDS WERE SCARCE LAST YEAR

Gustav Meyer However Believes That Game Preserves Will Tend to Increase the Number

OTHER GAME WAS PLENTIFUL

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Jan. 23.—Game birds were scarce in Indiana this last hunting season, according to Gustav J. T. Meyer, a well known authority. He pointed out a paradox in the situation. The state has laid out great preserves on which hunting is prohibited and the reason is that the state hopes birds will increase in number. Four years now these preserves have been unmolested and still game birds are scarce as ever.

Meyers' explanation is that the natural enemies of the birds, excluding the hunter, about equalize the greater freedom of the birds on the preserve to propogate. The solution for the problem is, according to Meyer, for the state to put expert wardens on the preserves further to protect the birds.

Other game was plentiful. Meyer stated. Rabbits and squirrels were found everywhere in plenty.

The hunter is interested in the question, will there be more inviting grounds upon which the hunter is welcome? Meyer answers that the future holds forth encouragement. The game-preserve-without-warden-idea is causing much discontent, he stated. The results are likewise a disappointment and the reserves may not be renewed in many places when the time limit expires.

OUR WOMEN CUSTOMERS

As a rule women are more careful than men in handling their money. The thrifty spirit shown by the women of Rush county is reflected by the large number of accounts maintained by them with this strong bank.

More and more farmers' wives are beginning to appreciate the advantage of a bank account, how they may have protection for money absolutely without cost and thereby free themselves from the personal danger connected with keeping their savings at home. We invite household accounts.

Deposed Governor of New York Tells Grand Jury of Alleged Conspiracy in New York.

MURPHY DEFENDS HIMSELF

Says he Never Talked Alone to Sulzer, But Latter Passes Lie to This Statement.

New York, Jan. 23.—Mr. Sulzer replied to Mr. Murphy's statement by saying: "Mr. Murphy seems to have lost control both of his temper and of the truth." He asserted that he could produce witnesses to support his assertion that Mr. Murphy talked to him alone in Washington on March 5.

New York, Jan. 23.—William Sulzer told the grand jury that he was removed as governor as the result of a conspiracy. That conspiracy, he said, was framed because he had refused to do the bidding of Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, and join a criminal campaign to loot the state.

The grand jury showed itself ready to probe the conspiracy charge to the bottom. Sulzer was asked to produce whatever documentary proof he had to support his charges. Sulzer promised to do so and District Attorney Whitman has announced himself as ready to sift every bit of legal evidence bearing on the charge.

Sulzer repeated to the grand jury the story he had told before Magistrate McAdoo in regard to the alleged visit of J. E. Gaffney to James C. Stewart, wealthy canal contractor, seeking $150,000 as a bonus for two promised contracts for the building of a section of the barge canal.

Prior to that, however, Charles F. Murphy made an emphatic statement in which he called Sulzer a liar and a perjurer and said that every word of the ex-governor's testimony in regard to "Gaffney or war," and other things was absolutely false. He said he is ready to waive immunity and testify in the John Doe proceedings.

There is a strong probability that Murphy will be a witness. Whether it will be on a subpoena or voluntary appearance or on an invitation of Whitman remains to be determined in the course of the investigation. Senator O'Gorman, who was mentioned by Sulzer as the person who told him that Gaffney was Murphy's bagman, sent word to Whitman that he is ready to testify. The plan, however, is to keep O'Gorman back for a few weeks until other witnesses have been heard, and he can clinch or throw down much of the testimony that already has been given. Another important development was the unofficial information that reached Whitman to the effect that James C. Stewart and Gaffney are well acquainted. Whitman will make a careful inquiry into that feature, Stewart having said he could not identify Gaffney as the man who had asked him for the $150,000.

The developments were regarded as having an important bearing not only upon the question of the charges against Gaffney in regard to seeking a commission from Stewart as a reward for any contracts that might be awarded to him, but in line with the big idea that Whitman has in mind of trying, if possible, to link a number of politicians in one indictment charging a general conspiracy to loot the state. Whether such a thing will be possible Whitman does not say, but he is carefully sifting every bit of evidence not only in regard to one or two men, but with the view of bringing a blanket indictment.

Soldiers Soon Will Have Money.

El Paso, Jan. 23.—Arrangements have been made between the local Mexican consul and General Salvador Lercado, commander of the interned Mexicans, for the payment of the imprisoned soldiers, and they will soon have money with which to patronize the exchange which has been set up.

Put Ban on All Public Dances.

Anderson, Ind., Jan. 23.—After two girls testified in the city court that whisky and beer had been given to them by young men at public dances in this city, Mayor Mellett directed the chief of police at once to suppress all public dances and not to permit another public dance.

DUTY DOESN'T

transportation have a great influence on the future growth of the town.

Now how is this matter of transportation going to be solved if the country town has no strong centralized organization to look after it.

The transportation problem in itself naturally justifies the organization of a Chamber of Commerce or Commercial Club in every town in the country. The problem is too big for the individual and furthermore the individual cannot have the influence upon railroad officials or even city or township officials to have railroad schedules changed or to have the roads and streets built and repaired. It requires the combined influence of the community banded together with the sole purpose of meeting the conditions of the community.

We hear a great deal about the congesting of population in the great cities. We have not heard about the concentration of population in the larger sized towns. This concentration is going on at a surprising degree and in the great majorities of countries which were settled a generation ago.

Shawnee County, Kansas, is a good illustration of this point. This county had a population of 29,093 thirty years ago. It now has a population of 61,874 showing an increase in thirty years of 32,781. Of this total increase 28,232 took place in the city of Topeka alone, showing the entire growth of all the remaining towns and country districts in that county for the past thirty years was only 4,549. This condition is a direct result of increased transportation facilities for Topeka. There were only six other towns in the county that had railroad facilities. The railroads going through this county all converged at Topeka. Then again the citizens of Topeka got together and started building macadam and paved streets out in the country. The result of this was that Topeka grew and the rest of the county stood practically still. The interesting part of this illustration is that Topeka is the only town in Shawnee County that had any kind of a representative organization that looked after its interests.

The problem of transportation is one of the strong arguments why the people of the community form a good strong civic and business organization and there can be no better time than the present for getting busy on this proposition.

Your Hens Need Help in Winter

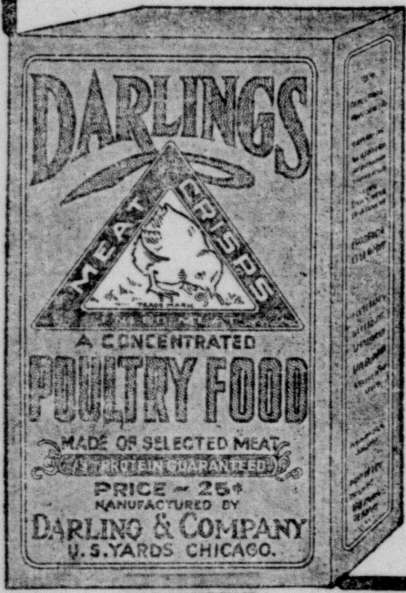

Your hens do the best they can to lay for you in winter. But they can't accomplish profitable results without your help.

They can't get bugs and worms the way they do in summer. You've got to supply them with this egg-producing protein. You've got to round out their grain feed with a meat ration.

Darling's MEAT CRISPS

supplies this necessity more effectively than any other meat ration. It contains 50 per cent more protein than common meat scraps and is low in fat and fibre. It is uniformly ground and clean and sweet. Every requirement for a meat ration laid down by successful poultrymen is fulfilled.

More Eggs When Eggs Mean Money

Get a twenty-five cent package of Darling's Meat Crisps today, mix a little with your regular feed according to directions on package, and the hens that are not laying will soon begin, while those that are laying will lay more regularly. Remember that Darling's Meat Crisps is a concentrated food and requires less to make a balanced ration.

If your grocer or feed dealer can't supply you, write us direct.

WILL LECTURE ON LODGE HOSPITAL

John F. Harris of Chicago Will Speaks to Modern Woodmen of Institution at Colorado Springs.

AT HALL HERE TUESDAY NIGHT

Stereoptican Views Will be Used to Show Sanitarium and Methods of Treatment.

National Lecturer, John F. Harris, of Chicago will deliver an illustrated lecture on the Modern Woodmen Sanitarium, at Colorado Springs, Col., at Woodmen Hall, Tuesday evening, Jan. 27, 1913.

The lecture will be free to everybody.

It will give views of the sanitarium, the method of treating consumption, and much useful information for the prevention and cure of this dread disease.

The Modern Woodmen Society was the first insurance order to establish a sanitarium for the free treatment of members of the order who contracted tuberculosis after becoming members of the Society; and during its brief years of existence it has cured hundreds of its members, and now has nearly one hundred and sixty patients undergoing treatment and still there are members on the waiting list. Additional cottages are being built as the funds available will permit and the Society expects to be fully equipped for taking care of all members who wish to be treated in the near future.

The new officers of the local camp of the Modern Woodmen treated the membership present last night, and an enjoyable session was held.

Consul C. C. Maple re-appointed Russell D. Price Chief Forester and named E. E. Oakley, Fred Price, George H. Ruhlman, Wilbur R. Wilson and William G. Wagoner as the social committee.

Trustee E. E. Oakley was re-elected managing trustee for the ensuing year.

Clerk Stech was instructed to correspond with the head officers with the view of having a number of them present at a meeting to be held in the near future.

Obituary.

Margaret Gifford Hood, born September 21, 1839, died January 19, 1914.

"The days of our years are three score and ten; and if by reason of strength they be four-score years, yet is their strength labour and sorrow for it is soon cut off and we fly away." Psalm 90:10.

Although our friend about whom we are gathered for the last time was 74 years, three months and 28 days of age, her cheerful disposition, alert mind and keen interest in her home and friends made her seem much younger. Strong in spirit but frail in body she battled bravely for life during the several days of her last illness, not because she feared death but because of her love for the living. She would have tarried yet a little longer to have been a comfort and solace to her children and the husband who had been her faithful companion for more than 55 years.

It was on the 21st of September, 1839 that little Margaret became a member of the household of John and Priscilla Gifford being born in the brick house still standing on one of the adjoining farms. There with 5 sisters and 3 brothers she grew to young womanhood obtaining her education in a nearby district school and the old Fairview Academy then a noted institution of learning. When almost 19 years old she married Alford B. Hood, who had grown to manhood on a near by farm. Six children came to gladden this home, one little daughter, however, was spared to them but 3 years when she was called away. The death angel came again several years later claiming another daughter just entering upon a splendid young womanhood.

In November, 1884, she united with the Fairview Christian church of which the Rev. J. L. Parsons was then the pastor. Although ill health had long prevented her from being a regular attendant of the church services she had not lost interest in the welfare of the congregation. It was but a few weeks ago that she said to the writer "I am not able to go to church but I can bake pies for the Ladies Aid if that will be of any benefit. Be sure and count on me for pies for your next sale." She also spoke of her grandchildren whom she loved so dearly and whom she hoped to see grow into fine young manhood and womanhood. "Come unto me all ye that are weary and heavy laden and I will give you rest." The burden of pain was to great to be borne and the peaceful smile speaks of a body and mind at rest and recalls to our minds the words of her favorite hymn, Nearer My God to Thee, Nearer to Thee! 'E'n tho' it be a cross that raiseth me; still all my song shall be Nearer My God to Thee! Her chair is vacant her voice is stilled but she will not be forgotten. Two daughters, Mrs. John Hickey, and Mrs. Robt Cook of this vicinity, two sons, Van of Carthage and Enoch of Indianapolis, six grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, one sister, Mrs. Eliza Kinder of Russiaville, this state, and numerous other relatives and friends share in the sorrow of the husband who has sustained a loss so irreparable.

"Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter through the gates into the city." 27111
